HOW TO WRITE OR REVISE YOUR STUDENT COUNCIL CONSTITUTION

Writing or revising your Student Council Constitution can be a difficult task but it is beneficial to the Council.

The first step is to decide what is important to you as a Council. What “rules” and “regulations” do you want to be important and why.

Then, you need to think about what you want to include in the Constitution.

Next, decide who will be involved in the writing of the Constitution, who gets finally say in the document, and who needs to approve the Constitution.

So how do you get started??????

At Neptune, every other year the Constitution is eligible for revision. It doesn't mean that it needs to be revised, just that it can be revised. In opposite years, an amendment or slight change can be made to the Constitution.

- A committee is formed to review the Constitution and prepare suggested revisions. In addition, any member may offer a suggestion for revision.
- This information is written up and given to all members for review prior to the Revision Meeting.
- At the Revision Meeting whatever revisions have previously suggested are on the agenda and then are discussed and debated. No new suggestions may be made at the meeting.
- If there are different ideas on the same “topic” a compromise can be suggested.
 - For example, if it was suggested to raise the number of points that must be earned to 200 and another member suggested 175 the members at the meeting can decide on a number in between or choose between one on the suggested ideas. If you do not attend the meeting you have no say in the discussion on the proposed changes.
- The proposed revisions are then voted on by all members. There is a voting period.
- Seniors may make suggestions but they are not allowed to vote on the revisions since they will not be affected by them.
